

Co-operation with IT-services - Metropolia University of Applied Sciences

Metropolia to tame the consumption of paper - Metropolia University of Applied Sciences, WWF's Green Office example 2013

Metropolia started a Green Office – environmental program in 2011. In the first year, the program started in Bulevardi campuses, which has 1270 students and 190 staff members. Green Office team did a lot of co-operation with IT-services and they also invited a representative from the IT-services to join a team.

Today, all of Metropolia is using centralized multi-function printing devices with automatic settings for black and white double-sided printing. Metropolia's staff can also see their printing balance when they log in to the campus computers.
